

ISABELLE REILO RIIS PAINTINGS

Isabelle Reilo Riis (b. 1990, Norway) is a visual artist working internationally. With over 15 years of exhibition experience, her work is held in private collections both nationally and internationally.

She works with painting as a form of emotional and intuitive expression.

Her work is rooted in a deep connection to inner life, where themes of transformation, presence, and self-discovery naturally unfold. Her paintings move between the subtle and the expressive — layered with both transparency and intensity — reflecting a continuous exploration of what can emerge, and of discovering something not yet seen or felt.

Guided by intuition, she creates from a deeply personal space, where each piece becomes a conversation between the visible and the unseen. Her process is driven by an ongoing curiosity — a willingness to move beyond what is already known, and to open new inner landscapes through both instinct and intention.

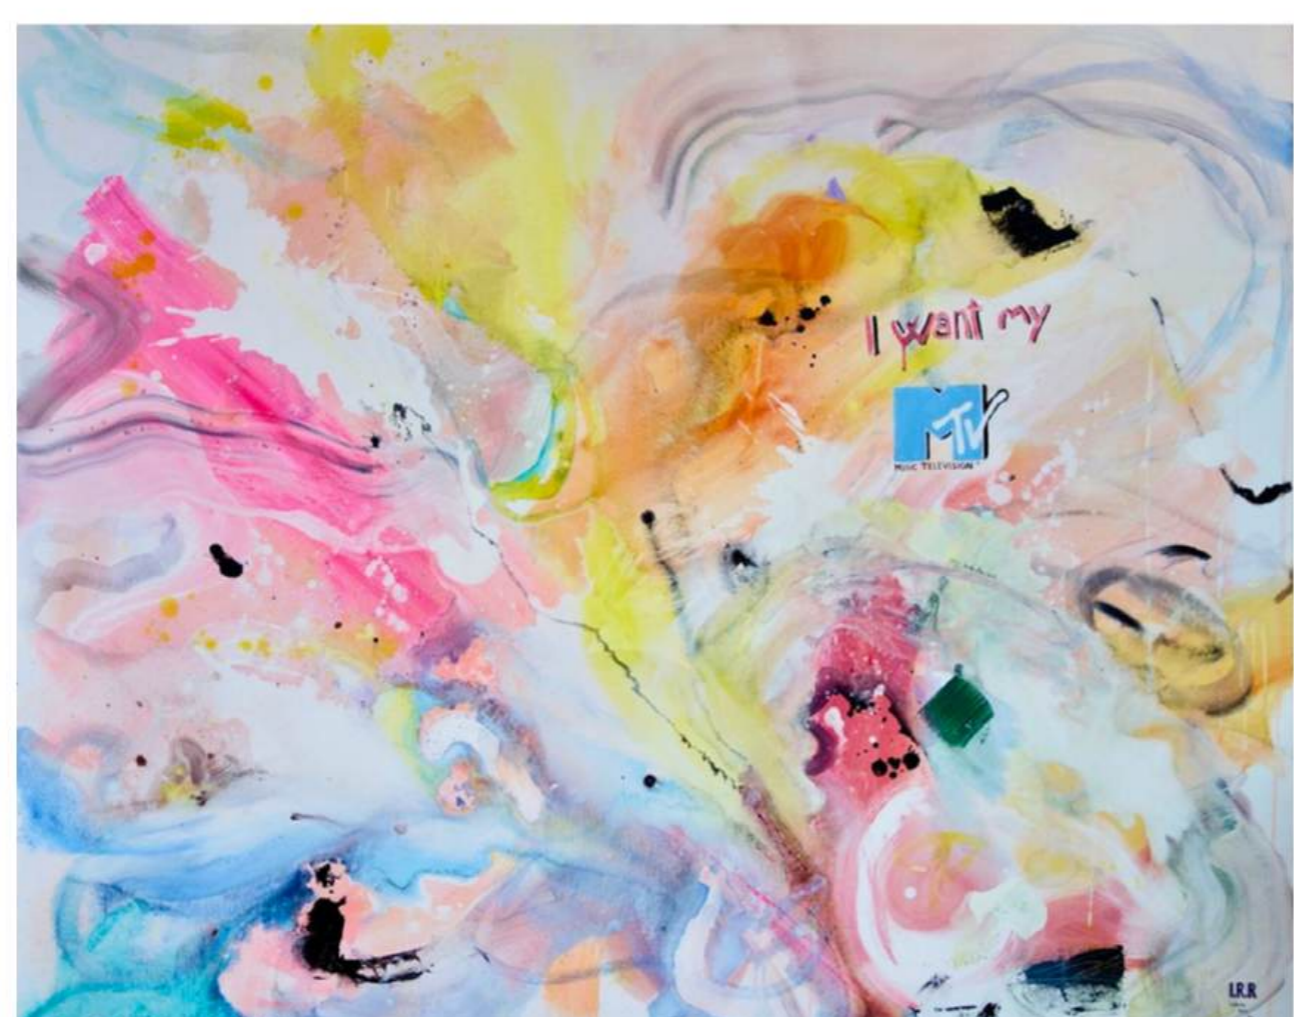

Through layered textures, soft transparencies, and more defined gestures, her work holds both calm and intensity — shaped over years of an evolving and intuitive practice, where complexity and chaos are brought into coherence, revealing a beauty that exists within and beyond the storm.

Each painting is an invitation — to pause, to feel, and to experience something beyond the surface, and to reconnect with something within.
